

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An optical pickup condenses a light emitted from a light source using an objective lens and irradiates the light on an optical recording medium to record data on the optical recording medium and/or to reproduce the data recorded on the optical recording medium. The optical pickup includes an optical element adjusting a convergence and/or a divergence of the light emitted from the light source and proceeded to the objective lens.